KENTUCKY LAWLESSNESS. Lexington, Ky., Nov. 30.—Jackson, the county seat of Breathitt County, distant about thirty miles from Mount Sterling, has been the scene of a serious outbreak and bloodshed during the past week. The place has a bad reputation for lawlessness, and it is not a great while since a detachment of the State Guard was required to preserve order. The present trouble results from a collision between two lawless bands of outlaws, one under Capt. John Stinson, of Home-Guard fame, and the other Jack Alkman. The strong party took possession of the town, committing many acts of lawlessness, and getting reckless from drink. During the afternoon the Alkman party, twelve or fifteen strong, rode into town and made an attack on the Stinsons. Thirty or forty shots were discharged, two taking effect on William and Daniel Freeman. The former was shot and secured by Mrs. McDaniel and a Chinese servant.

INDICTED FOR MURDER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 30.—William H. Langwich, a dissolute fellow convicted of murdering his mother 70 years of age, by kicking andounding her during a drunken bawh, was sentenced to the State-Prison for life. The sentence was somewhat lenient, but very strong. The accused steadily asserted innocence from the first.

CAPTURED.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

East Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 22.—Gilbert McDaniel, the man who eloped with this city a few days ago with his 15-year-old step-daughter, was arrested to-day at West-Bay City, brought here and lodged in jail. He was living with his girl.

KILLED BY A CHINESE BURGLAR.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 30.—A Marysville dispatch says that early this morning John McDaniel, lessee of Marysville Park, was murdered by a Chinaman whom he caught burglarizing his premises. The murderer was overpowered and secured by Mrs. McDaniel and a Chinese servant.

DEATH SENTENCE.

Philadelphia, D. T., Nov. 30.—M. L. Conk, tried and convicted of the murder of Mrs. Minnie Freeman, his followers received no injuries, but barricaded themselves in a little log cabin about 100 yards from the Court-House, where they had previously stacked their arms. Alkman and his party sought shelter in the Court-House, and a regular interchange of shots was kept up during the whole afternoon. One of the Freemans who fell in the middle of the street when shot was forced to lie there for two hours, his friends fearing to attempt his removal. During this sordid hideous yell and shades of death could be heard from both parties.

The next morning (Tuesday) it was discovered that Alkman and party had withdrawn from the Court-House, and quaterned themselves near the river bank, while Strong and his clan held their fort unbroken. About 10 o'clock Strong retired, and soon thereafter straggling drunken men, well armed, began to parade the streets in defiance of all law and order. It was soon whispered that the guard which had been sent to Lexington, under charge of the Sheriff, to bring back Jason Little, charged with wife-snatching, had been released, and efforts made to release the prisoners. A willing leader was found in a Justice of the Peace named J. C. B. Allen, supported by the Littles, Crawfords, and others, numbering about forty, who loitered about the streets, impatiently waiting for the guard to appear. Judge Randolph, to defuse the seat of the mob, had the Deputy-Sheriff and County Judge detail an extra guard of fifteen men, who were under the leadership of the County Judge, John W. Burnett. About 3 o'clock p.m. they returned with the prisoners, and safely deposited them in jail. The guard remained about thirty-five full hours, and, no effort at a release was made; but immediately after the guard returned from the jail to the street, and before he slept, thinking the danger was over, Crawford and Little began an attack on Judge Burnett, threatening to take his life. The excitement began to run high. Yell after yell rent the air, and suddenly a volley was poured in on the guard who, taken by surprise, sought shelter at every quarter. During the discharge of this volley Judge Burnett was shot through the heart and instantly killed. The consternation was great, and kept on during the whole evening, and diabolical yells were kept up by the victorious mob as it gained the advantage. Allen and his men, being in the Court-House and in the court-room, while the guard retreated up the street to the point where Strong and his clan were barricaded.

The forces now numbered some thirty or forty on each side. The men were all armed with the latest improved Colt's navy repeating, Smith and Weller rifles, and, being good shot, were sure-mans to 100 feet to 300 yards, whence he might appear. During the pistol-shooting, a posse of Allen's clan, with axes, attempted to burst open the jail door and rescue the prisoner. At this point Tom Little of Compton, a brother of Jason Little, appeared upon the scene of the conflict, and made an effort to quell the riot, but was suddenly shot through the body, which caused the jail-breakers to desist. The Allen party deserted the Court-House last night, and the Sheriff and posse took possession, thus closing the door to the jail. No constable has been held, and the Circuit-Court Judge suddenly disappeared the morning before 7 o'clock, leaving no order as to the disposition of the prisoner. Little, a guard was detailed to dig the grave for the interment of Judge Burnett, and the sheriff and his party by the side of the body who died one year ago. Ladies and citizens who came to town to-day to attend the funeral have beaten a hasty retreat.

The Governor of Kentucky is in a special to the Lexington Press, dated Nov. 28, which states that Jackson is still in possession of the mob, but that the champion of the law has been sent to the State-House of the mob. Picket fence is kept up, and many citizens have been killed and wounded. No action has yet been taken by the Governor.

FATALLY STABBED.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 30.—The Grand Jury of the United States Court returned five indictments against Carey W. Miller, the defaulting Teller of the First National Bank.

BIBLE LESSON.

FOR HOME AND CHURCH, DEC. 1, 1878.

Prepared for the celebration of the Lord's supper.

"These words which I command thee this day shall enter into thy heart, and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up, and, when thou shalt be as a sign unto the people; and when thy children shall ask thee, saying, What mean these? thou shalt say unto them, It is the commandment of the God of thy fathers, which I command thee this day." Exodus 13:9-10.

These words are repeated in the New Testament.

1. I have remained in seclusion at Bethany from Thursday afternoon until Thursday afternoon.

2. Thursday afternoon He went to Jerusalem to see the Passover.

3. The interval from Tuesday to Thursday spent, mostly, in repose.

4. At the time the Sanhedrin had matured their plot to take his life.

5. It agreed to arrest Jesus privately for fear of the people.

6. The Passover celebration began on Thursday, and Friday, Friday, Saturday, and Saturday thereafter.

The many friends of the Rev. John Gordon, of Montreal (former pastor of the Western Avenue Baptist Church), who have been here since he came to this city, will preach this morning at the First Baptist Church, and in the evening at the Tabernacle Church, corner of Indiana and Madison.

The Rev. William Parr, of Worcester, Mass., comes out of a long vacation badly damaged in reputation. One witness testified that the reverend gentleman was for several days on a frolic in Bristol, I. a., where he spent a boozing, pickling, and gambling life, losing his hotel before he went to sleep on a bench, and taking it out empty in the morning. He did not pay his liquor bill until threatened with exposure.

John E. Moore, Archdeacon of Constantinople and Emmanuel Bishop, who was once an orthodox Greek Church, was formerly Metropolitan of Saloniæ. He is a man of 45, a graduate of Strasburg, and a man of liberal tendencies. He is a favorite in the eyes of the Russians, who are therefore not over well pleased with his election. The Sultan did not exercise his right of rejecting any of the candidates.

John F. Morrissey held a special ordination in the Cathedral at Davenport, at which he ordained to the priesthood the Rev. C. Tompkins Burnett, a graduate of New College, St. John's Wood, London, and a man of many years' experience in Congregationalist minister in England and America. The Rev. Mr. Burnett's discourse has been spent in Fairfield, Ia., and is to be preached to a parish in the Diocese of Northern Ohio.

The Rev. H. B. Morefield, late of Temple Street, M. E. Church, was installed pastor of the Phillips Church, South Boston, Nov. 13. Sermons by the Rev. J. L. Wetherow, D. D.; including the Rev. H. B. Morefield, of Boston, corner of East Hartford, brother of the candidate; other parts by the Revs. A. E. Banks, Rev. Thomas, S. E. Merrick, and others. The reason Mr. Morefield gave for his change of church relations was the constant change from place to place of the Methodist ministry. His doctrinal views were mainly in accord with Congregationalism.

HUMOROUS PIETY.

When the contribution-box comes round, if you don't give a cent you should nod, and nodding is ascent.

A little boy in a Sunday-school put a poem to his teacher. The lady was telling her class how God had created the Earth. The first-born of each household to be slain. The little boy listened attentively. At the proper interval he timidly inquired: "What would God have done?"

Nest Dow, the great temperance reformer of Maine, had a narrow escape the other day. For a whole generation he has been regarded as a saintly man. But it struck suddenly to his heart that he was a swindler and a swindler of the counter and imbibed brandy and water. Things looked a little serious for a while, and the temperance folk in that far-off region felt that even the great God of Justice had made a fatal mistake. The train, however, on the cross-country road explained that he drank the brandy and Nest Dow the water, and the whole State of Maine breathed freely once more.

Personal Notes—The Fashions of the Approaching Winter.

CHICAGO.

RETURN OF PROSPERITY.

The coming winter promises to be the most brilliant in social circles that Chicago has known for several years. Although the days of Terpsichorean clubs have in a measure gone by, private entertainments, receptions, musicals, and amusements of a better character are becoming more popular, and the better classes of people appear to be developing a tendency to cast aside their former scruples in the pursuit of social benefits of their inclinations. An increase of social festivities always denotes an increase of business; consequently, it is hailed with delight. The senior partner of an old and prominent firm in this city stated to the writer the other day that his house had never done the amount of business in Chicago that it was doing this fall. On the street, everybody one meets is wearing a contented, cheerful countenance, and every one appears to be happy. There are not so many good men out of employment, and our city is prosperous once more, as can be seen in the increasing number of each week.

Last Friday was more heartily and generally indulged in as a holiday than any of its predecessors since 1873, and all felt thankful.

THANKSGIVING.
From Our Own Correspondent.

MILWAUKEE, NOV. 30.—Today is the first month of winter, and the end of the year, and the seasons are in order. They come from a careful canvas of the social reports of Thanksgiving-Day. There was doubtless plenty to eat on most tables. There were many quiet, good dinners at which the home household had extra dishes and dainties, to show that the occasion was a festive one. But the dinner parties, the formal "spreads," were a full company, in full dress, sat down to a full feast, half a dozen courses and three kinds of wine, were not numerous. Even the smaller gatherings, which were more or less of the same kind of meat and extra dishes furnished

a less pretentious feast for a half dozen or so of neighbors, were much less numerous than in former years. The fact is that a comfortable

Thanksgiving dinner for a half a dozen guests besides the family, or even for two or three, as the same parade and amount of edibles are required, costs from $15 to $20. The cost of a full dinner for twenty and two, with all the trimmings, will be about $50 and from that up.

The expenditures are not as great as they were in "flush times," but the cost of living is still far higher than it was in 1873. The cost of nearly all articles has been increased, and the cost of the necessities of life has been increased.
